

Liberal Arts College

Public Lecture

Alisoun Looms: Chaucer and the Fabric of History

Professor Peggy Knapp

Carnegie Mellon University

Dr. Peggy A. Knapp is professor of English at the College of Humanities and Social Sciences of the Carnegie Mellon University of Pittsburgh, P.A. She was educated at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Pittsburgh where she received her Ph.D. in 1965. She is the recipient of numerous grants and awards, amongst them a Modern Language Association Certificate of Excellence in Teaching and Contribution to a Basic Course and a Carnegie Corporation grant for the Medieval Semester. She is the author of many articles on Medieval and Renaissance texts as well as two books, The Style of John Wyclif's English Sermons and Chaucer and the Social Contest. She has also taught at the University of Pittsburgh and was a Visiting Professor at Universität Augsburg in 1987.

Date: Thursday, October 8, 1992

Time: 8:30 p.m.

Place: Cinéma Alexandre De Sève
New Library Complex
1400 de Maisonneuve Blvd. West
Sir George Williams Campus

Telephone: 848-2565

Free Admission

Concordia
UNIVERSITY